CITY WILL SEEK COLLECTIONS ON BACK ACCOUNTS

Holt Instructed to Sue State
Banking Board For $11,819.50.

"NO CITY MONEY LOST"

Commissioners Resolve To Make Clean Sweep for Funds Due.

Resolutions putting the city on record as favoring a vigorous move to recover $11,819.50 in city funds which were deposited in the old Guaranty State Bank here at the time of its failure, by a suit against members of the state banking board to share as creditors of the bank, were passed at a meeting of the city commissioners yesterday afternoon.

Passage of the resolutions was closely followed by a statement from commissioners in which they declared their intention of taking every available course to see that the city lost none of the funds involved either in the closing of that bank or in later transactions in which worthless bonds of the town of Pershing are alleged to have been bought.

T. P. Holt, city attorney, has been instructed to start action at once toward safeguarding all city interests in connection with the collection of these accounts due the city.

It is set forth in the commissioners' resolutions that there was $11,819.50 in city money in the old Guaranty State Bank when that institution, on February 1, 1921, transferred its assets and banking fixtures to the state board and the deposits to the Security State bank. The city attorney is instructed by commissioners to demand an accounting of the collections from the assets of the Guaranty State Bank and to demand "the return to the city of all uncollected assets for the better collection of the same."

Banking Law Cited

The commissioners further ask that Holt take legal steps under the double assessments of stockholders' clause of the state banking laws to collect such assessment against officers and stockholders of the Guaranty State Bank to protect the city in the sum mentioned.

"There seems to be a feeling on the part of some persons that the city has lost this money and other sums under various transactions." Mrs. Minnie G. Hope, commissioner of accounting and finance said this morning. "I hold that not a cent has been lost. We do not promise that it shall be collected in a day, or a week, or a month. But it is all collectable, we believe, and the commissioners have resolved to get it—every cent of it."

"The city books are being gone over carefully," she added, "and there shall be a strict accounting for everything."

BREAK IN TIE IS FATAL TO LOCALS

College Divides Score With Durant But Loses in An Extra Five Minutes.

For the third time this season Ada's caging pedagogues have fallen victims to the Durant Teachers. Last night's game duplicated East Central's defeat of a week ago at Durant. Again the home team lacked the necessary punch to win, and after tying the visitors 20-20, fell down by three points in the extra five minutes to play off the tie. The final score was 23 to 21.

The game was slow during the first half, both sides reverting largely to the five man defense, but in the last half players got warmed up and freshened their assaults, putting more effort into their work. The entire game was an even break, as ten points were made by each side in the first half and ten in last half. Ada men often played well on the floor, never stopping in their advance of the ball, but they lost out when it came to putting the sphere through the basket.

Although Durant was ragged at times on floor work, she was better able to take an advantage. Witt, center for the visitors, proved to be Durant's scoring trump. He registered six field goals and four free throws. Although good at passing the ball and shooting, he was unable to make much headway in breaking up work of Ada men.

Craig, captain of the visitors, was the best man that team had on intercepting and playing defensive.

Little was high score man for Ada, getting four from the floor. Waner, Ada, made many good shots but all of them were too much to count. Ada men worked more to team playing and forgot individual stuff last night. Had her forwards been more successful in finding the goal sport history would have recorded a different story.

That is what the fans hope to see tonight when the two squads mix again. Tonight's game will end a series of four games played between the two colleges this season. Ada lost two of them to Durant there two weeks ago. Coach Thompson's men expect to win tonight by a continual fight that will give them enough advantage to make an extra five minutes unnecessary. The game will start at 8 o'clock.

Up to noon absolute quiet had been reported, the presence of troops on the streets having the desired effect to check operations of gunmen which since the beginning of the present series of disorders have resulted in 25 deaths.

Conditions on the border, where forces of north and south Ireland are facing each other as the result of tension created by the recent kidnapping of Ulster unionists, also were reported quiet. With the exception of Constable O'Donnell, relieved from Drogheda, county Louth, who returned to his barracks two days ago, no additional unionism prisoners had been released up to this afternoon.

Field Goals: Durant, Witt 6, Hays 3, Craig 1; Ada, Little 4, Newton 2, Harrison 1, Chism 1; Free Goals, Witt 4 out of 7, Waner 3 out of 6, Witt 4 out of 7, Waner 3 out of 6, Durant 7, Ada 3; technical fouls, Durant 2, Ada 4.

Helmrich, assistant professor of mechanical engineering, were received this morning by O. N. Walker, secretary of the Chamber of Commerce.

The letter said:

"I want to take this opportunity to thank you in writing for the very cordial reception you and the members of your Chamber of Commerce accorded us during our visit in Ada. I can assure you that the boys were so well pleased that next year you will probably receive a visit from the combined class of civil engineers and mechanical engineers."

FIRING RESUMED IN STREET RIOTS

Belfast Man Reported Tied and Tortured Before His Death By Bullet.

(By the Associated Press)

BELFAST, Feb. 15.—After a period of quiet lasting several hours disorders again broke out in this city at 3 o'clock this afternoon when shooting began in the Stand-Hope street area, near the vicinity of the barracks. The military promptly opened fire.

Up to noon absolute quiet had been reported, the presence of troops on the streets having the desired effect to check operations of gunmen which since the beginning of the present series of disorders have resulted in 25 deaths.

Conditions on the border, where forces of north and south Ireland are facing each other as the result of tension created by the recent kidnapping of Ulster unionists, also were reported quiet. With the exception of Constable O'Donnell, relieved from Drogheda, county Louth, who returned to his barracks two days ago, no additional unionism prisoners had been released up to this afternoon.

BELFAST. Feb. 15.—Shooting was resumed in the early hours of the morning in West Belfast after a temporary lull at midnight. Frank McCoy was found dead on a sidewalk with bullet wounds in the back.

The reported death of James Rice, whose body was found late last night, says that an armed gang bound his hands behind his back, pulled his coat over his head, tied a scarf over his eyes, kicked and beat him and then ended his suffering with bullets.

Shooting also occurred today on the east side of the city, a section that has been up to this time immune. Shots were fired into several private houses. Maggie Teggart was wounded in the lung. Patrick Bradley, an income tax collector, was wounded in the stomach by shots fired through the door of his home. The door of Father O'Brien's house was smashed with bullets, and Peter Keeney and Frank McHugh were severely wounded while in their houses.

The death in a hospital of a girl and youth who were shot Monday brought the total death list of the present series of outbreaks to 25.

John O'Neill, a postman, was shot from a side street this morning while in Falls Road. His arm was broken.

BELFAST. Feb. 15.—Arrangements for the evacuation of the British troops from Southern Ireland were resumed today after a suspension lasting two days. At Dublin preparations were being made for the embarkation of 400 men.

PEACE PALACE IS SCENE TODAY OF COURT SESSIONS

(By the Associated Press)

The Hague, Holland, Feb. 15.—The Peace Palace, which signifies during the war labeled "closed owing to bankruptcy"—was the scene today of the inaugural session of the permanent court of international justice, the corner stone of the League of nations. The event was hailed by adherents of pacifist ideals as a new milestone in the evolutionary progress of the world towards peace.

At the opening session the judges took the oath to fulfill their offices "honorably, faithfully, impartially and conscientiously." In their future sittings they are expected not only to clear up any doubt pointing to international laws as may come before them but also to create laws where there is need for them.

The first meeting was held in the great hall of justice.

The representative of the United States is John Bassett Moore.

County Officers Nab Still and Send Axe Into Big Supply of Beer.

Three hundred and fifty gallons of choice beer trickled down the hillside near Dolberg schoolhouse yesterday afternoon, only to be rapidly swallowed by the thirsty earth, when county officers applied the axe to one of the biggest stocks of intoxicating liquors captured in a raid this year.

More than a gallon of whisky and a complete still, the fifth captured by the sheriff's office within the past seven days, were confiscated. C. L. Reece, a farmer, was being held in the county jail today and charges of possession and manufacturing were being prepared for filing in the county court.

Officers said today that other arrests in connection with the finding of the still were expected hourly.

According to a story as told this morning by deputies, other men interested in the still's operation were alarmed by the approach of officers and left the scene hurriedly immediately before the raid opened. Reece, it is said, retreated a short distance and is alleged to have tried to reach a Winchester, near the site of the still, but was anticipated in his move and blocked by a deputy sheriff.

Tomorrow at noon the high school band will play in different sections in the business part of the city. The Senior class band will play at the intersection of Main and Broadway. The Junior band will play at the intersection of Main and Remond and Townsend. After playing separately, they will combine at Main and Broadway and play several selections. The object is to arouse interest in the high school and its activities.

NURSE OPENS HER TEST OF KIDDIES

Health Expert Starts City
Survey at Hays School; At Others Later.

First examination work by Mrs. Lucy Henderson, nurse who has been secured to conduct a health survey of the city schools, was started this morning at Hays Ward school. Mrs. Henderson expects to be about two days there, finishing in time to start at Willard school Monday. She will visit ward schools before going to the high school. The younger children are to be given first attention, it was explained.

At a meeting last night of school principals and members of the board of education Mrs. Henderson outlined her plan of action here. She described the success of her work in other cities and those who attended the meeting were enthusiastic over prospects for benefits which the health survey will bring to Ada.

A meeting is to be held at 4 o'clock this afternoon with the county health committee and Mrs. Henderson will further discuss her plans. She is scheduled to address a meeting of the Patron's club of Willard school Thursday afternoon.

The Local Friends class is to meet at 3 o'clock. Friday afternoon at 2 o'clock she will attend a meeting of the patrons club of Hays school and will leave at 3 o'clock to attend a meeting of the Patrons club of Glenwood school. It is expected she will meet the patrons clubs of Washington and Irving schools Monday and Tuesday of next week.

It is reported that several interested patrons visited Hays school today. Mrs. Henderson spent part of yesterday in preparation for today's work and started on schedule. The co-operation of the entire teaching staff is proving a great assistance to her, it was stated.

High School Bands Play Tomorrow In Interest of Games

The conference basketball games of the Ada High school will start here Thursday evening when the Paul Valley boys come for a contest. The local girls, have a game matched for the local court with Weleetka Friday evening.

Tomorrow at noon the high school band will play in different sections in the business part of the city. The Senior class band will play at the intersection of Main and Broadway. The Junior band will play at the intersection of Main and Remond and Townsend. After playing separately, they will combine at Main and Broadway and play several selections. COUGH MEDICINE IS CAUSE OF MAN'S DEATH

DALLAS, Feb. 15.—A small bottle of cough medicine was indirectly responsible for the accidental death early last night of Charles S. Martin, 50, a real estate dealer, at his home. He was shot through the heart when the neck of the bottle caught on the trigger guard of a pistol he was carrying with the medicine in an overcoat pocket.

The pistol exploded the cartridge, the bullet ranging thru the coat upward through the body.

FIGHTERS STAGE 6-ROUNDS DRAW

But Cooper Returns Part of Punishment Shawnee Man

The shifty "Hack" Heaglebeck came over from Shawnee last night and took back at the hands of Arch Cooper, Ada's hope, part of the punishment he administered two weeks ago to Claude Sparks in a preliminary to the Cooper-Fox affair.

Against a man clearly his equal if not his superior in ring tact, Heaglebeck lost some of his easy confidence that had characterized his fighting before. Last night it was a give and take for the Shawnee man, with perhaps more emphasis on the take than on the give. He and Cooper battled six rounds to a draw.

Fast preliminaries paved the way for the major bout. Johnnie Baker, bantamweight, knocked out "Sailor" Adair in the second round of a whirlwind encounter. "Jack Dempsey" Sparks, Ada, and "Sluggo" Harris, Byars, went four rounds to a draw with the visitor showing signs of reviving from a slump of exhaustion as the final bell sounded.

At the outset of the big bout, Heaglebeck came into the ring with his old show confidence tempered somewhat by the remembrance of Cooper's fatal left that laid "Battling" Fox low before his very eyes two weeks ago. The Shawnee man early made evident his intention of relying on clever footwork and body balancing to meet Cooper's rushes. This served him well until Cooper landed a swift right to the head. The round closed with honors even.

Heaglebeck opened the second round more aggressively using feints in an attempt to worry Cooper. His body poise was good. By rushing the Shawnee man to the corners of the ring, Cooper landed several good punches to the head.

In the third round Cooper resumed the offensive, chasing his opponent to cover repeatedly. Both men missed heavy swings and went through the ropes. As the round ended, Cooper's right found Heaglebeck's jaw. The Shawnee man went to his corner smiling.

The fourth round was uneventful. Heaglebeck feinted tactfully, whirling and dancing about the Ada man. Cooper attempted to crowd the visitor and missed one blow because on a torn place the fighters had made in the canvas covering of the ring. Both men were holding up well.

Fifth round Cooper aiming hooks and uppercuts which the Shawnee man had been coached to watch. Heaglebeck weathered body blows well. The visitor was wary but opened up twice in offensive fighting.

Throughout the sixth round the crowd spurred Cooper on to knock out his opponent. Heaglebeck's superior footwork and defense again saved him. Cooper outpointed the Shawnee man.

BIBLE THOUGHT FOR TODAY

HEAR THE WORD:—O earth, earth, earth, hear the word of the Lord.—Jeremiah 22:29.

DIPLOMATIC LANGUAGE.

What is diplomatic language? Oftentimes it is saying something that is not entirely true. The greatest diplomat, it seems, is oftentimes the one who says the least, at other times he is one who says the pleasing thing, regardless of the truthfulness of it. As an example of this note the following written by William T. Ellis, one of the writers at the armaments conference:

"Language has so long been put to immoral uses by diplomacy that possibly the professional statesmen present saw nothing incongruous in the graceful but shamelessly inaccurate words which were drawn as a veil before the assortment of ugly facts. After listening to the British, French, and Japanese speeches at the concluding plenary session of the conference on Saturday, February 4, and mentally contrasting them with the records of the daily proceedings, I can imagine the yellowest of journalists going home with an almost pharisaical air of self-conscious virtue. Never-the-less, I fear for the effect of the example of the diplomats upon the morals of the younger correspondents."

And what was to be gained? There should be one rule of action among representatives of governments as among men in private life; absolute honesty and sincerity of purpose. It is useless to attempt to cover up unpleasant things. It is much better to let the disease killing sunlight of facts in upon the mess and correct the evils.

Thomas A. Edison recently passed his seventy-fifth birthday. It found him hale and hearty and working as hard as ever. Work has been his delight. He has cared little for money his inventions brought him but has gone ahead delving into the secrets of nature and adding much to the store of knowledge slowly acquired by mankind. On every hand we see results of Edison's work, the moving pictures, talking machine, and electric light being most in evidence. However, his inventions run into the hundreds and the race enjoys many comforts and conveniences as a result of his labors. If a man is to be known by his works, Edison must rank as one of the greatest benefactors of the human race. Once when a man made some remark about his wonderful genius, Edison replied that his success was due to ninety-eight percent of hard work and two percent of genius.

The announcement of Uncle Joe Cannon that he will not again be a candidate for congress means the closing of the longest legislative career in the history of the nation. Cannon is serving his twenty-third term, or forty-sixth year. He was in congress when most of the present day members were only aspiring debaters in the district school literary societies. Only twice has he lost out. In 1890 he went down with McKinley and other Republican leaders before the Democratic landslide and again in the split of 1912 he lost a term to a Democrat, but he has never been the sort who would stay down. Cannon is one of the few men of Lincoln's day. He witnessed the birth of the Republican party and has had a part in making its history down to this hour.

Dr. Cook, who claimed to have reached the North Pole a year before Admiral Peary succeeded in the attempt, is one of the sort who dies hard. It has been fourteen years since he returned to civilization and startled the world with the announcement that he had reached the Pole. Peary returned five days later and set up a similar claim. For several months Cook was acclaimed as the hero of the hour and was everywhere in demand as a lecturer. He commanded fancy prices for a time but finally had to submit his evidence to a Danish commission of scientists. This evidence consisted mainly of what was supposed to be his daily observations of his latitude and longitude as he journeyed northward. Without waiting for a verdict Cook disappeared and it was months afterwards that he was located in South America. Meantime the Danish board proclaimed his supposed records of observations as faked and Cook was thoroughly discredited. However, he has been lecturing from time to time, although in some instances the price of admission was only a dime, and now he comes back again insisting on his claims. We admire his nerve, anyway. The doctor, after traveling all over the world has located in Fort Worth, Texas, and is in the oil game.

Laws are designed to protect the weak against the aggressions of the strong, but no form of legislation has yet been devised that will give a man a supply of nerve. And it takes nerve to get above the level on which man begins life. Only the exercise of will power counts in the final test.

"You are not the only turtle in the tank," said a popular old song. Occasionally we find some guy who thinks he is but when he is gone the tank is as full of turtles as ever and no one misses the one who no longer swims in its waters or suns himself on its banks.

Talk is cheap; so is dynamite, but in either case a little carelessness may cause a lot of trouble.

The Figures on Ourselves.
Fort Worth Record.

What we as a people for our own integrity's sake need to do, is to look truth in the face. We can derive rules of conduct from facts, not from preconceptions. Our army in the late war furnished a human laboratory which psychologists took advantage of. Seventeen hundred thousand officers and men were subjected to intelligence tests. The results have now been carefully analyzed, so that we are furnished "a line" on ourselves, or presented with "a significant psychological picture of the young manhood of the country," to quote Cornelia James Cannon, who epitomizes the results for the February Atlantic.

Twelve per cent of the white men in our country are mentally superior, 66 per cent have average mental endowment, and 22 per cent are of inferior mentality. Those are the basic figures. Mentality, not education, is the standard of division.

The progress of civilization, nay, its maintenance, depends upon the existence and operation of the superior minds, the 12 per cent of them amongst us. They furnish the inventors, scientists, organizers, managers, statesmen, artists, great innovators and thinkers. To quote Mrs. Cannon:

"They are the members of our race who have led us up from barbarism, and keep us from sinking back into it. There is nothing of the wisdom of the ages which can be offered to them, no opportunity for advancing them, which does not bring rich dividends of added prosperity and happiness to the rest of us."

Ideally a democracy ought to be the social form least obstructive to superior minds' careers. We may flatter ourselves that America has allowed superior minds to lead. But the America that did that has less percentage of inferior minds by a good deal.

And this present America we are further deleting the proportion of superior minds by admission of races that average 70 and 63 per cent of inferior minds. We have been adding low mentality to our mortal outfit with a vengeance for forty years now, and the inferiority is reflected in our politics, our writing, our morale.

There is place for inferior mentality in the community. In fact, the inferior mentality is indispensable. Were everybody of superior mentality, it would be a condition as unworkable as the preponderance of the inferior mentality would be destructive. We are, however, not in the slightest danger of too many superior-minded men and women.

What we are in positive danger of is the preponderance of the inferior-minded who increase in numbers and in power. They give indication of refusal to follow the superior-minded, if not of such revolt as Lenin has directed in Russia.

They are not the immediate danger, however. The immediate danger lies in the supineness of our majority, the 66 per cent of average men mentally, who impose their supineness too much upon the community. They are the men of routine who are efficient, do well in their activities, but really refuse to think much out of them, to be alarmed for the future, to act outside their personal spheres.

Such a majority refuses, as far as it is able, to let the superior minority act, or to follow it. They prefer mediocre leaders mediocre thinking, mediocre action. And predominant mediocrity is blight.

Shadows Come to Life.

(Muskego Phoenix)
"Why," demands the Man On The Street, "is there always so much interest in movie people? Why does a scandal, a murder or even an ordinary wedding that involves these folks get so much more attention from ordinary people? Why do the newspapers give so much more space to them?"

Mr. Man On The Street has about answered his own question. The newspapers do give a good deal of space in print and pictures to these affairs and they do simply because, as he himself said, most of the people on the streets and avenues want to read about them.

Movieland is mysteryland.

Most of us know these people of the screen intimately but only as shadows. It is a sort of half belief, a make believe that is almost childish in its simplicity and yet marvelous in its hold on us.

And so it is that when we find them stepping out of their accustomed roles, when we see them as ordinary mortals, when we find them the victims of the same human passions, hates and loves and fears that we encounter in our own daily drama, that we know them as flesh and blood persons.

Perhaps, too, we take almost a delight in the ill-fortune that has struck Hollywood because we have been secretly envious of their good fortune, their handsome motors, their wonderful homes and their great salaries. Great as an idol may be there is something in human nature that delights in his fall, something that says "he can fall and be hurt as well as I," "he isn't having such a rosy time now."

This mystery of movieland explains the popularity of so-called personal appearances of the stars. We flock to see them—to study their mannerisms and their words—to convince ourselves these men and women we know so well are more than mere shadows.

And, folks, have you noticed—in the development of Hollywood's new mystery—what strikes us as strangest of all?

Where are the vampires of the screen in this off-stage drama? Here, surely, is a role for a Theda Bara or a Pauline Frederick. Yet while Pauline is quietly enjoying a third or fourth honeymoon and of Theda we have heard not a peep, but we find dainty Mary Miles Minter and the naive, although undoubtedly sophisticated Mabel Normand, terribly involved in a sordid thing.

What conflicting emotions there come to learn that the sweet, pure thing of the screen is the passionate "I love you, I love you. I love you," of behind the screen, and the movie vampires, for all we know, quietly darning socks beside the gas log?

There is place for inferior mentality in the community. In fact, the inferior mentality is indispensable. Were everybody of superior mentality, it would be a condition as unworkable as the preponderance of the inferior mentality would be destructive. We are, however, not in the slightest danger of too many superior-minded men and women.

What we are in positive danger of is the preponderance of the inferior-minded who increase in numbers and in power. They give indication of refusal to follow the superior-minded, if not of such revolt as Lenin has directed in Russia.

They are not the immediate danger, however. The immediate danger lies in the supineness of our majority, the 66 per cent of average men mentally, who impose their supineness too much upon the community. WRITE TO THESE MEN.

The chief defects, or places where waste is apparent in the conduct of the business of the government, that I have pointed out in these articles, have been, first, the excessive proportion of the government income that went for military expenditures; second, the chaotic condition and lack of adequate supervision and control of expenditures, which have been in part remedied by the introduction of the budget system; and third, the haphazard organization of the government departments and the unorganized condition that prevailed in government employment.

The remedy for two of these conditions I have treated briefly in the two immediately preceding articles. I come now to the matter of reorganization of the departments and the reclassification of government employees. A beginning has been made on both of these matters.

A joint committee of the two houses of congress, with Walter F. Brown as chairman, is studying the whole question of organization of the government and the function of the various departments and bureaus and independent establishments. I cannot too strongly advise you to keep yourself in contact with the work that joint committee is doing.

I have given you the names of the members of the committee in another article but I will repeat them here. They are Senators Smoot of Utah, Wadsworth of New York and Harrison of Mississippi; Representatives Reavis of Nebraska, Temple of Pennsylvania and Moore of Virginia. Write to any of them or to Mr. Brown, the chairman of the committee, who represents the President, with headquarters in the house office building here at Washington.

This is the third or fourth attempt that has been made to effect a general reorganization of the conduct of the business of the executive departments. They have all failed through lack of interest. There was lack of public interest, and consequently lack of interest in congress.

This joint committee is at work now. It is collecting facts. It is finding out the actual condition. It is studying the departments. Presently it will make a report to congress. If you will show an active, insistent interest in the work that it is doing, congress will take action. If you do not show this interest, there is every chance in the world that no action will be taken, and that things will remain much as ever.

Hundreds of special interests are clamoring for the attention of congress. All of them are organized. Most of them keep representatives here at Washington. They present to individual members of congress in a hundred skillful, shrewd, subtle ways arguments to support the legislation they are seeking to advance. It would take two or three columns of this newspaper merely to print a list of the organizations and associations that are here to keep congress mindful of their interests.

In this great clamor the common public interest is likely to be submerged. In fact, too often it has been submerged. This matter of economies and reorganizing the business of the government and taking up the tedious details of administration is a dull business. It has been neglected and put off time after time because of a lack of public interest and driving force behind it.

If you will supply this driving force now and display a sustained interest, you can at least put the business of government of the United States on an efficient basis. Congress has been negligent because you have been negligent, but now at last the thing has run along so far that something must be done about it.

Used Insects to Fight Insects.

Control of destructive insects by the introduction of their natural enemies has become an important technique during the last generation, writes Paul Popeno in Science. But if competent observers are to be trusted, the southern Arabs employed the same method more than 160 years ago in the culture of the date palm.

In his "Relation d'un Voyage dans l'Yemen," P. E. Bottia says:

"I was able to verify the singular fact previously observed by Forskal, that the date palm in Yemen are attacked by a species of ant which would cause them to perish if each year the growers did not bring from the mountains and fasten in the tops of the palms branches of a tree that I did not recognize, which contains the nests of another species of ant which destroys that of the date palm."

HUFFAR IN THE RACE FOR DISTRICT JUDGE

In this issue will be found the announcement of Judge D. W. Huffar for the office of District Judge of the Seventh Judicial District, consisting of Pontotoc County, subject to the action of the voters at the Democratic Primary to be held August 1, 1922.

Judge Huffar is no stranger in this section. Most of the people will remember him as a partner in the practice of law with Duke Stone. He lived here prior to and immediately after statehood, and campaigned in Pontotoc county and other parts of the state in behalf of prohibition and the first Democratic ticket ever elected in this county and state, under the direction of the Democratic organization.

Judge Huffar is a native of Tennessee and is a graduate of the Medical Department of the State University of Tennessee and practiced Medicine for five years in Alabama. After this he enrolled in the law department of Cumberland University at Lebanon, Tenn., and after graduating there he moved to Greenville, Texas, and entered the practice of law. Later on he was elected prosecuting attorney, which position he held for eight years. One can get a good idea of his official career and the esteem in which he was held by the public, whom he served by the following clipping from the Greenville Banner after he had closed his last term:

'Judge Huffar, as a prosecutor, demonstrated in many a hard fought case, is undoubtedly without an equal. He has prosecuted many persons charged with murder and in those cases, while he was district attorney, there was not a single verdict of "not guilty" read to him. He has well and rightly earned the reputation of being one of the most powerful prosecutors in the state. Mr. Huffar thoroughly understands human nature and seems gifted with a power to instantly detect the motives of persons, no matter how well concealed. He stands out prominently before the people as a man who has always been true and faithful to the discharge of duty and as an exponent of the rights and privileges of the plain people of the land. He has never taken a small place in any situation where he has been placed and his splendid intellect, his knowledge of men, his superior forensic ability, his varied information, his fidelity to the trust of the people, certainly makes him one of the leading and strongest members of the bar.'

Howat Opens Fight To Be Seated With Miners Convention

(By the Associated Press)

INDIANAPOLIS, Feb. 15.—Alexander Howat, deposed Kansas mine leader, won the preliminary skirmish of his fight for a seat in the convention of the United Mine Workers of America here today, against the action of union administration officials expelling Howat and creating a provisional government for the union in Kansas.

By a rising vote of 977 to 864, a decision was reached to consider Howat's appeal to override the administration official orders and an immediate roll call was ordered, probably delaying a final decision until tomorrow. Meanwhile all consideration of the wage scale matter was delayed.

President Lewis reported that 125 men from Kansas were attending the convention as "an organized movement" to create a disturbance in the convention.

An organized plot of terrorism has been carried on against the president of the United Mine Workers of America," continued Lewis, adding that he had received letters demanding his resignation and declaring that if he presided at the convention "it has been decreed in secret conclave that I should die."

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., Feb. 15.—Alexander Howat began today his fight for a seat in the miners convention when the session opened, his movement delaying consideration of the wage scale report. The Kansas leader said he wished the convention to decide by an appeal whether it would sustain his expulsion and that of his followers, but in reply to questioning by President Lewis, admitted he had not filed an appeal, called for by the executive board's order, as provided by the union constitution.

VISUAL EDUCATION FOR ORPHAN CHILDREN OF YEOMEN HOME

JACKIE COOGAN

DES MOINES, Ia.—Jackie Coogan is more than an infant star of the cinema. He is to other children an invitation to a liberal education.

The movies have been called the greatest educational force of modern times. Vivid pictures remain in the memory when printed lessons are forgotten. Educators recognize that the visualization of an idea is the most effective form of teaching. Moving pictures are invading the class room. Their value has been demonstrated in kindergarten instruction. The movement to install them in general school work has become nation-wide.

"Visual education," said Mark T. McKee, an official of the Yeomen and a prominent corporation attorney of Detroit, "will be a part of the school system at the home for orphans and half-orphans to be established by the Brotherhood of American Yeomen. It is the most enduring form of education for impressionable childhood. What the child sees in attractive pictures, he never forgets. Moving picture machines will be in every class room and will be an important factor in the scientific educational program of the home."

The home for fatherless and motherless children of the Yeomen, one of the great fraternal organizations of the nation, will be built, it is expected, this year. The children will live in family groups in cottages in charge of carefully selected educators. Play, industry, school, health, morals, social direction, religion and child welfare will all be brought into play to mould the children into the best types of manhood and womanhood.

Offers for sites for the home have been received by the Yeomen from practically every state in the union. The location will be determined in the near future. The home eventually will represent an outlay of $10,000,000.

HYPNOTIC EYES OF STRANGER PUT HER IN A TRANCE, GIRL ASSERTS

BROCKTON, Mass., Feb. 14.—(Special)—"He lulled me to sleep with Svengali eyes!"

That is the charge made by Clair Beauclair, pretty eighteen-year-old girl, against a strange man who, she says, is holding her under a weird, psychic influence.

Perfectly normal most of the time, Miss Beauclair, according to physicians, has developed a dual personality as a result of this influence.

When under the strange "spell" she lapses into sleep for extraordinarily long periods. Once she slept continuously for 128 hours, all efforts to awaken her failing.

She says, however, that when in the throes of her weird slumber, she is not unconscious, but is aware of everything that goes on about her. Yet she is unable to rouse herself.

Eyes Haunt Her.

Occasionally in her sleep, it is said, Miss Beauclair cries out incoherently:

"Those eyes! Oh, those eyes! Take them away!"

The girl's story of how she fell under the supposed psychic influence of the mysterious, Svengali-eyed stranger, follows:

"One morning two years ago I entered the office where I was employed to find a strange man of about forty-five trying to embrace one of the women who worked with me. He was big and dark and strong.

"There was no one else in the office at the time, as it was before starting time. Just as I entered I heard the woman, who was struggling to free herself, cry:

"Let me alone—I'm a married woman!"

"At that he let her go. Turning around he spied me. I felt myself suddenly fixed to the spot by his terrible, big, black eyes and remembered nothing until he came over and grabbed me up in his arms.

"Then I regained possession of myself and with a wrench freed myself. Then, I slapped him as hard as I could right across the face.

"I knew it hurt him and I thought it would end the matter. But the next instant he struck me a stunning blow in return. Then, leaning toward me in a threatening manner, he muttered:

"I surely can recommend Doan's Kidney Pills for they are reliable.

I have taken them for weak back and disordered kidneys. When I get one of those attacks my hips and back become very lame and my back has often ached so I could hardly get my rest at night. My back has been lame, and after stooping I could hardly straighten. I bought Doan's Kidney Pills at The Corner Drug Store and in a few days they have rid me of the attack. I advise anyone who has kidney trouble of this kind to take Doan's Kidney Pills."

Clair Beauclair.

"You will regret this! I shall put you to sleep and make you walk long distances without being able to stop yourself."

"You will regret this! I shall haunt you in your sleep with my eyes until you wish you did not live!"

With this threat, Miss Beauclair says, the mysterious man left the place.

Man Followed Her.

He looked back once at me as he was going out of the door. It was a terrifying stare. I could not forget it nor drive it from my mind. It haunted me at my work and in my sleep.

"I quit my position and went to another town. But I could not rid myself of those terrible eyes. Then, gradually, I became aware of the new dual personality in me."

Police of Brockton are searching for the man with the Svengali eyes.

Doctors think he has placed her under a hypnotic influence.

Judge Huffer Angry. Judge D. W. Huffer is on his ear at the News and does not care who knows it. He says the News ran a lot of stuff about February 2 being Groundhog Day when anyone with the least bit of information in his cranium knows that February 14 is the day, at least that is the day his groundhog comes out of his winter quarters, and since this is the case and there was no chance for said hog to see his shadow Tuesday he knows the hog is still roaming about somewhere with an early spring trotting at his heels.

CALM SETTLING OVER BANK ROW

Christopher, Reported in Kansas City, Admits He Was in the Wrong.

(By the Associated Press)

OKMULGEE, Feb. 15.—A state of apparent calm had settled over Okmulgee and only speculation as to the whereabouts of Judge H. R. Christopher, of the Okmulgee superior court, and anticipation as to the outcome of the investigation into the failure of the Bank of Commerce here last November by a grand jury which will be called to report in district court February 27, and efforts of Attorney General Short to re-organize the defunct bank continued to claim the attention of the people, which until yesterday had been agog with excitement over the situation growing out of Judge Christopher's dismissal of the grand jury last Thursday during its investigation into the affairs of the bank.

Aside from his resignation from the bench, which arrived erehite the bench, which arrived here late yesterday, no word has been received from Judge Christopher since Monday.

Efforts to gain admittance to his home here today and last night were without avail. It is now extremely unlikely that Judge Christopher will return here during the next several days.

KANSAS CITY, Feb. 15.—Judge H. R. Christopher of the superior court of Okmulgee county, Oklahoma was in Kansas City yesterday, according to E. T. Noble, an Okmulgee attorney. Mr. Noble, who knows Judge Christopher well, said he recognized the judge and talked to him. He said Judge Christopher said he "realized he made a mistake in the grand jury matter."

The meeting occurred in the union station here and Mr. Noble said he talked to the judge ten or fifteen minutes. He said that Judge Christopher did not state where he was going, or what his plans were, but that the "gathered" from his talk that the judge expected to return to Okmulgee Friday.

The judge, according to Noble, insisted in dismissing the grand jury he had "acted on the advice of Prince Freeling."

Farmers' Column

By Byron Norrell

I made a trip to Jesse Tuesday but the weather kept growing more threatening and too cold for comfort so I made my stay rather brief, footed it back to Stonewall when it began to sprinkle rain and sleet.

Jesse is another of the old time villages that dotted the country in the early days. There are several good residences, a store, blacksmith shop and school. The land in that vicinity is most excellent and there are some good orchards.

The school house contains three rooms but only two teachers are employed at this time. They are Edmund Osborne and Mrs. Thomason. About 120 children have been enrolled during the term. Mr. Osborne stated that the session will last about five weeks longer.

I don't claim to know more about raising chickens than some of the ladies who have raised them all their lives, but when it comes to handling a bunch of chickens successfully, my better half can measure results with anyone. Here are a few pointers from her experience, taking a brood hatched two weeks ago, all of which are thriving, for example. We have a good brooder which keeps them warm and warmth is the first step. A chick should not be fed for forty-eight hours after being hatched, the yellow of the egg from which he was hatched furnishing nourishment for this period and even longer. This brood was taken from the incubator one Friday morning. Sunday afternoon they were given some water and plenty of coarse sand and grit. They ate quite a bit of this. Monday morning they were fed some hard boiled eggs and given plenty of the sand, grit and water. Tuesday they were given a mixture of bran, wheat, oats, barley, cotton seed meal and charcoal which we got at the mill. At the same time they were fed plenty of good rich egg corn bread made up with buttermilk and have had plenty of this ever since. They have also been fed a hard-boiled egg every day, some green wheat chopped up fine, some meat scraps cut fine and plenty of baby chick feed carried at any grocery store or mill. The main features of the business of chicken raising is to see that they have nothing but dry feed at first, plenty of fresh water at all times, keep them from getting wet and keep them warm. In years gone by I have seen young chickens fed with corn meal dough. Following such a feed many of them died. With the right kind of feed I don't think a chick can ever eat. Our bunch has had feed before them all the time and have eaten a surprising amount of it, but there has not been a droopy one in the lot. When we lived on the farm [Mrs. N.] had splendid luck with her chickens and we always kept plenty of clover or butter milk where they could get. This agreed well with the larger chickens especially.

By way of giving our readers a chance to test the advertising value of the News columns, we have decided to make a special rate for the time being on farm products. Any farmer who has anything to sell or any person who wants to buy anything in the way of farm produce may advertise the fact in a special column in daily or weekly provided for the purpose at the rate of one cent per word each insertion. This is one-third off. We want to help our farmer friends find customers and a News ad will do the work.

Pulling the Farmers Out of the Hole.

After all the agricultural conferences have been held and the politicians have had their say, most farmers, if not all, will find that it is up to them as individuals, and to all farmers collectively, to put agriculture back on a paying basis. You can't legislate the ox out of the ditch or the farmer out of the financial hole he finds himself in.

The interest in agriculture manifested by the government and by bankers and other business men is encouraging to the extent that it may eventually bring about a reduction in freight rates on those commodities which a farmer must sell or buy, and promote a fairer attitude towards the producer in the transaction of business. If it does this, the publicity the industry has received has been worth while. But low freight rates and even lower prices on farm machinery will not make farming profitable. It is still up to the farmers to produce what the market demands, and no more, and to market intelligently. Overproduction for the market and underproduction for home use put the farmers in the "hole" and will keep them there unless the process is reversed.—Farm and Ranch.

American Ranchman Shot By Mexicans, Says State Report

WASHINGTON, Feb. 15.—Charles Burrow, also known as Charles Miller, American manager of a ranch near Mohera, Mexico, was shot to death by unidentified persons February 1, the state department was advised today in a dispatch from American Consul Bowman at Monterrey.

The department has instructed Bowman and the embassy at Mexico City to request the proper Mexican authorities to apprehend and punish the person responsible for the crime.

EUFALIA.—G. W. Hansbro, McIntosh county farmer, is putting in a demonstration in the breeding of Brahama cattle which he believes will improve the breeding herd in eastern Oklahoma, according to H. L. Bankhead, county agent. Hansbro bought three Brahama heifers three years ago and is feeding their offspring along with white-faced steers. The Brahmas, he says, are larger at birth than the white-faced, and much more rugged and hold their flesh easier.

Investigate and Invest—

A Building and Loan Association is an incorporated financial institution authorized by the proper authorities to do business in the state where it operates, and supervised by some department of state government. Oklahoma Building and Loan Associations receive their charters from the Secretary of State, and are under the supervision of the state banking department.

The law requires that a building and loan association be audited at least once a year by the banking department, and often if deemed necessary by the commissioner of banking. Their work is two fold—to encourage savings by paying the same dividends on small amounts as on large amounts of money placed with them and to encourage home owning by enabling people to build homes and pay for them on the monthly payment plan.

There is no ground floor stock in building and loan associations, or, rather it is all ground floor stock, as every stockholder comes in on the same basis regardless of whether as a charter member or purchaser of stock later, and regardless of whether as a borrower or an investor. There are several classes of stock issued by the various building and loan associations of the state, but stock of each class is practically the same in all associations.

The savings feature comes first in the work as building and loan associations have no funds to loan except money derived from investments in the various classes of stock. The installment, or monthly payment stock, is usually the leading class of stock issued, although when building is quite active special attention is given to fully paid stock, in order that the association may have larger amounts with which to take care of building activities.

All money placed in The Home Building and Loan Association of Ada is invested in some form of stock. All money so invested is exempt from taxation for the reason that this association loans its funds very largely for the erection of new homes, and, therefore, increases taxable values, or else loans its funds to members to acquire homes already built and the homes so acquired are already subject to taxation.

Any well managed building and loan association is a safe investment, and in my opinion THE HOME BUILDING AND LOAN ASSOCIATION OF ADA is one of the best managed associations in Oklahoma. An investment in this association is equal to more than 15 percent, because you have no taxes, no insurance, no upkeep, and no worry. Don't wait another day; invest a portion of what you make each month in THE HOME BUILDING AND LOAN ASSOCIATION OF ADA.

You can create an old age fund of $10,000 by paying into this association 120 monthly payments of $50.00, plus a membership fee of 1 percent.
